

Building resilience in primary care

Bespoke development support for Primary Care Networks and practices

Do you need help to create capacity and capability to maximise your team's impact?

Does your leadership team need support to plan how to get the most from integrated and collaborative working?

Are you keen to understand your population data to help inform workflow, workforce, and practice and Primary Care Network (PCN) development?

From practice to PCN or wider-system level, we offer a range of bespoke support services designed to help your team to understand its unique circumstances and needs.

At the South West Academic Health Science Network (South West AHSN) we recognise that these are tough times. We are focused on supporting those leading and working in primary care, creating the right conditions for you to effectively support your teams and ensure the continuity of care your patients need.

What we offer

The COVID-19 pandemic has shown the value of innovative practice and PCNs in partnership working. As health and care transitions to Integrated Care Systems, we are supporting PCNs to widen their participation across local partners, to improve population health and equity in the delivery of primary care.

Organisational development – We can help you to develop a shared vision, and purposeful ways of working and workforce deployment

Team development – We can help you to improve staff recruitment, retention and collective working to achieve a more sustainable general practice

Individual leadership development – We can support your leaders and managers to become change agents in their practice and PCN

Rapid improvement – We can facilitate bespoke quality improvement and large-scale change techniques to help you develop a team or network

Population health analysis – We can use your practice data to provide insights into your patients, pathways and processes, supporting you with change management processes to adjust or reform the way you work

Improved patient access – We can bring our data visualisation expertise to identify key cohorts and ways of working to improve your access provision, in line with new PCN service requirements

Who we are

The South West Academic Health Science Network is one of 15 AHSNs set up across the country by NHS England in 2013. Our purpose is to transform lives by identifying and spreading innovation in health and care.

Alongside supporting population health and leadership within primary care, we also run a range of programmes including optimising familial hypercholesterolaemia detection and lipid management, improving the detection and escalation of deteriorating residents using the tool RESTORE2, and improving medicines administration through our South West Care Home Network.

Get in touch

Are you a primary care leader looking to maximise the impact of your practice and PCN?

Contact us to learn more:

info@swahsn.com | www.swahsn.com
@sw_ahsn

South West
Academic Health
Science Network

